Fiji

Fiji conjures up images of white sandy beaches fringed with coconut trees, romantic moonlit walks along the shore, and the beaming smiles of locals as you join in their fireside songs. For years Fiji has epitomised South Pacific island charm.

Now the islands are well established as a great destination for divers too, with locations such as the Somosomo Strait, Taveuni, Kadavu and Bligh Water all growing in stature among the diving community. While Fiji promises a variety of dive attractions including pelagics, sharks, barrier reefs and wall diving, it is for the spectacular colour of the reefs that Fiji is known as 'The Soft Coral Capital of the World'.

Belize

Ambergris Cay (pronounced Key) is at the heart of Belize's dive tourism, the largest of the out islands, and a bustling resort and fishing community. Ambergris is just 20 minutes by air from Belize City or an hour and 15 minutes by ferry. With dirt roads, beachside cafes and dive shacks lining the shore, Ambergris Cay is rustic and charming. There are several restaurants and tourists shops in San Pedro, Ambergris's largest town. A few yards off the coast of San Pedro is the Hol Chan Marine Preserve, the northernmost point of the Barrier Reef. The dive sites are so near shore that diving is just a matter of suiting-up. The only exceptions to the rule are the day-long Blue Hole and Half Moon Caye trips that several local dive shops operate.

The Blue Hole, Belize's most famous dive spot, is a spectacular sinkhole near the center of Lighthouse Reef. The Blue Hole is best seen from the air where you can see the almost perfect circle, 1000 feet in diameter, changing from the cobalt blue of the Caribbean to a deep azure blue circle then to a deep indigo blue in the center of the circle. At 140 feet you reach an awesome underwater 'cathedral' with alcoves, archways and columns. The cathedral is a huge submerged cave with stalactites that are 12 feet wide suspended 20 to 60 feet from the cavern ceiling. Best Diving Months: March through May or August.

Key Largo, Florida

A major draw for the Key Largo reefs is the shallow depths, where a diver can get a full hour of bottom time studying the largest variety of fish species anywhere in the Caribbean. Divers can video tape or take underwater photography of the abundance of sea life in Key Largo. For the novice diver there is no better place in the world to polish scuba dive skills, while enjoying the beauty and splendor of Key Largo's reefs and shallow wrecks. For the more intrepid tech diver, Key Largo Florida offers the USCG Cutters Duane & Bibb, and the USS Spiegel Grove. At the intermediate depths of 60ft to 140ft, these wrecks will definitely satisfy that mystical "lust for rust". Horizon Divers is in the heart of Key Largo, Florida. We are a short boat cruise to Key Largo's 100 beautiful dive sites. That means you're in the water more than in the car or on the boat. We are a full service PADI and IANTD dive center providing an array of standard and unique amenities, not just exceptional Upper Florida Key scuba diving and Key Largo snorkeling. Those amenities begin with iced fruit juices and water on every Key Largo dive trip; freshwater rinse stations on board; spacious, clean and air conditioned scuba dive classroom; wireless internet access; special rates on Key Largo lodging; guest gear pick-up/storage/shipping service; shoreside barbecues; Key Largo party cruises and more.

Bahamas

Dolphins, sharks, wrecks, and reefs. A wide variety of tropical diving adventures await you at UNEXSO, the only place in the world where you can dive in the open ocean with dolphins, dive with sharks, and explore the mystery of sunken ships on a single dive vacation. Shallow Reefs Starting at approximately 20 feet of water, shallow dives are perfect for beginning divers and snorkelers. These reefs offer great color, marine life, and coral. Medium Reefs Located in 40 to 60 feet of water, these reefs are typically scattered coral heads growing into more solid formations. Deep Reefs In 65 to 80 feet of water, high profile corals are seen in tongue-and-groove formations. Also, sharks, turtles, and pelagic species are most likely to be seen on these reefs. They also offer shark diving.

UNEXSO pioneered this exciting dive almost 20 years ago and was the first to offer shark diving on Grand Bahama Island. Our staff are considered experts in shark behavior and conservation and will organize an up close and personal experience with the sharks at UNEXSO's Shark Junction.

Galapagos Islands

The Galapagos Islands are located 600 miles west of Ecuador and offer some of the most spectacular wildlife found anywhere in the world. Nowhere else on this planet will you find penguins which live on the equator (The Galapagos Penguin) or iguanas which swim and feed in the ocean (The Marine Iguanas)! Because these islands have only recently been invaded by man, the literally 1000s of animals that inhabit these islands have never learned to fear us. This means that you can literally walk right up to hundreds of blue-footed boobie birds, red-footed boobie birds, masked boobie birds, albatrosses, penguins, land iguanas, marine iguanas, lava lizards, sea lions, fur seals, red-chested frigate birds, flamingos, finches, tropic birds, lava gulls, giant tortoises, and flightless cormorants. The diving all over Galapagos is world class and the land is as fantastic as the diving and every island is very different than every other island with different types of animals. The land animals evolved without predation so they have no fear of man. You can literally walk right up to any animal in Galapagos and it will not move away. The islands are all covered with thousands of animals so the land excursions are awesome.

Green Island, Taiwan

Green Island, once known as "Fire Island", is a small island located 33 kilometers in the Asian Pacific Ocean off the coast of South Eastern Taiwan. Having a population of 2000 on an area of 16,2 square kilometers, the island was formed by volcanic action which left a curved and complex coastline. Coastal beach terraces and cliffs drop to colorful coral reefs where schools of tropical fish make their abode. Along the shoreline, white coral beaches can be found and numerous coves which lead into warm tropical waters.

Guests from all over the world are always pleasantly surprised by the excellent diving here at Green Island - a little known diving paradise in East Asia off the south east coast of Taiwan. Coral reefs abound around the island are very easy to access (over 205 different kinds of hard and soft coral are to be found including Mountain coral - only to be found in the warm Japanese current). Snorkeling and scuba diving excursions are well organized and first timers can enjoy guided, supervised snorkeling with lifejackets and lifebuoys. Optical diving masks are also provided which is particularly welcome for those wearing glasses and contact lenses.

Oman

With 3,165 Km of coastline and clean unpolluted waters, Oman is one of the best kept secrets in the diving world.

The diving available in Oman provides adventure and enjoyment with dramatic wall drop-offs to scenic coral lined fjords, ranging in depth from 6-40 meters. Oman enjoys good sea conditions with an average visibility of 20-30 meters. Several superb dive sites encircle the Capital Area, including Fahal Island, Dimaniyyat Islands and Cemetery Bay. Night dives are popular and divers are often astounded by the amount of phosphorescence found in Oman's night-time waters. During winter months, the sea temperature drops to 20-25 C° and one may require a 5 mm wetsuit. In summer, as the sea temperature rises, a 3 mm wetsuit will suffice.

Sea-life is abundant regardless of chosen site, with a variety of hard and soft corals present, and shoals of fish everywhere. The diving is easy diving with good intact corals and a spectacular range of fish, with a possibility to see dolphins on the way to the dive sites.

A number of Diving Agents do operate in the Sultanate, and can arrange trips to the numerous diving sites surrounding the Sultanate at convenient conditions.
